

IN THE SPECIFICATION:

Please insert the following at page 3, between lines 3 and 4:

--In one aspect of the invention, a server is capable of communicating with a user terminal and a helper terminal for providing information to the user terminal. A storage means stores helper information of the helper terminal, and a reception means receives, from the user terminal, an inquiry about information desired by a user. A selection means selects the helper terminal in accordance with the inquiry received by the reception means and the helper information stored in the storage means.--